What's at Stake?

We've identified four key risks that present everyday challenges for those in charge of administering workplace benefits and absences within large companies.

As your partner, we put our experience and technology behind you, to help you face up to each of these with confidence.

1

PRODUCTIVITY RISK

2

FINANCIAL RISK

3

ADMINISTRATIVE RISK

4

COMMUNICATION RISK

Productivity Risk

The Challenge

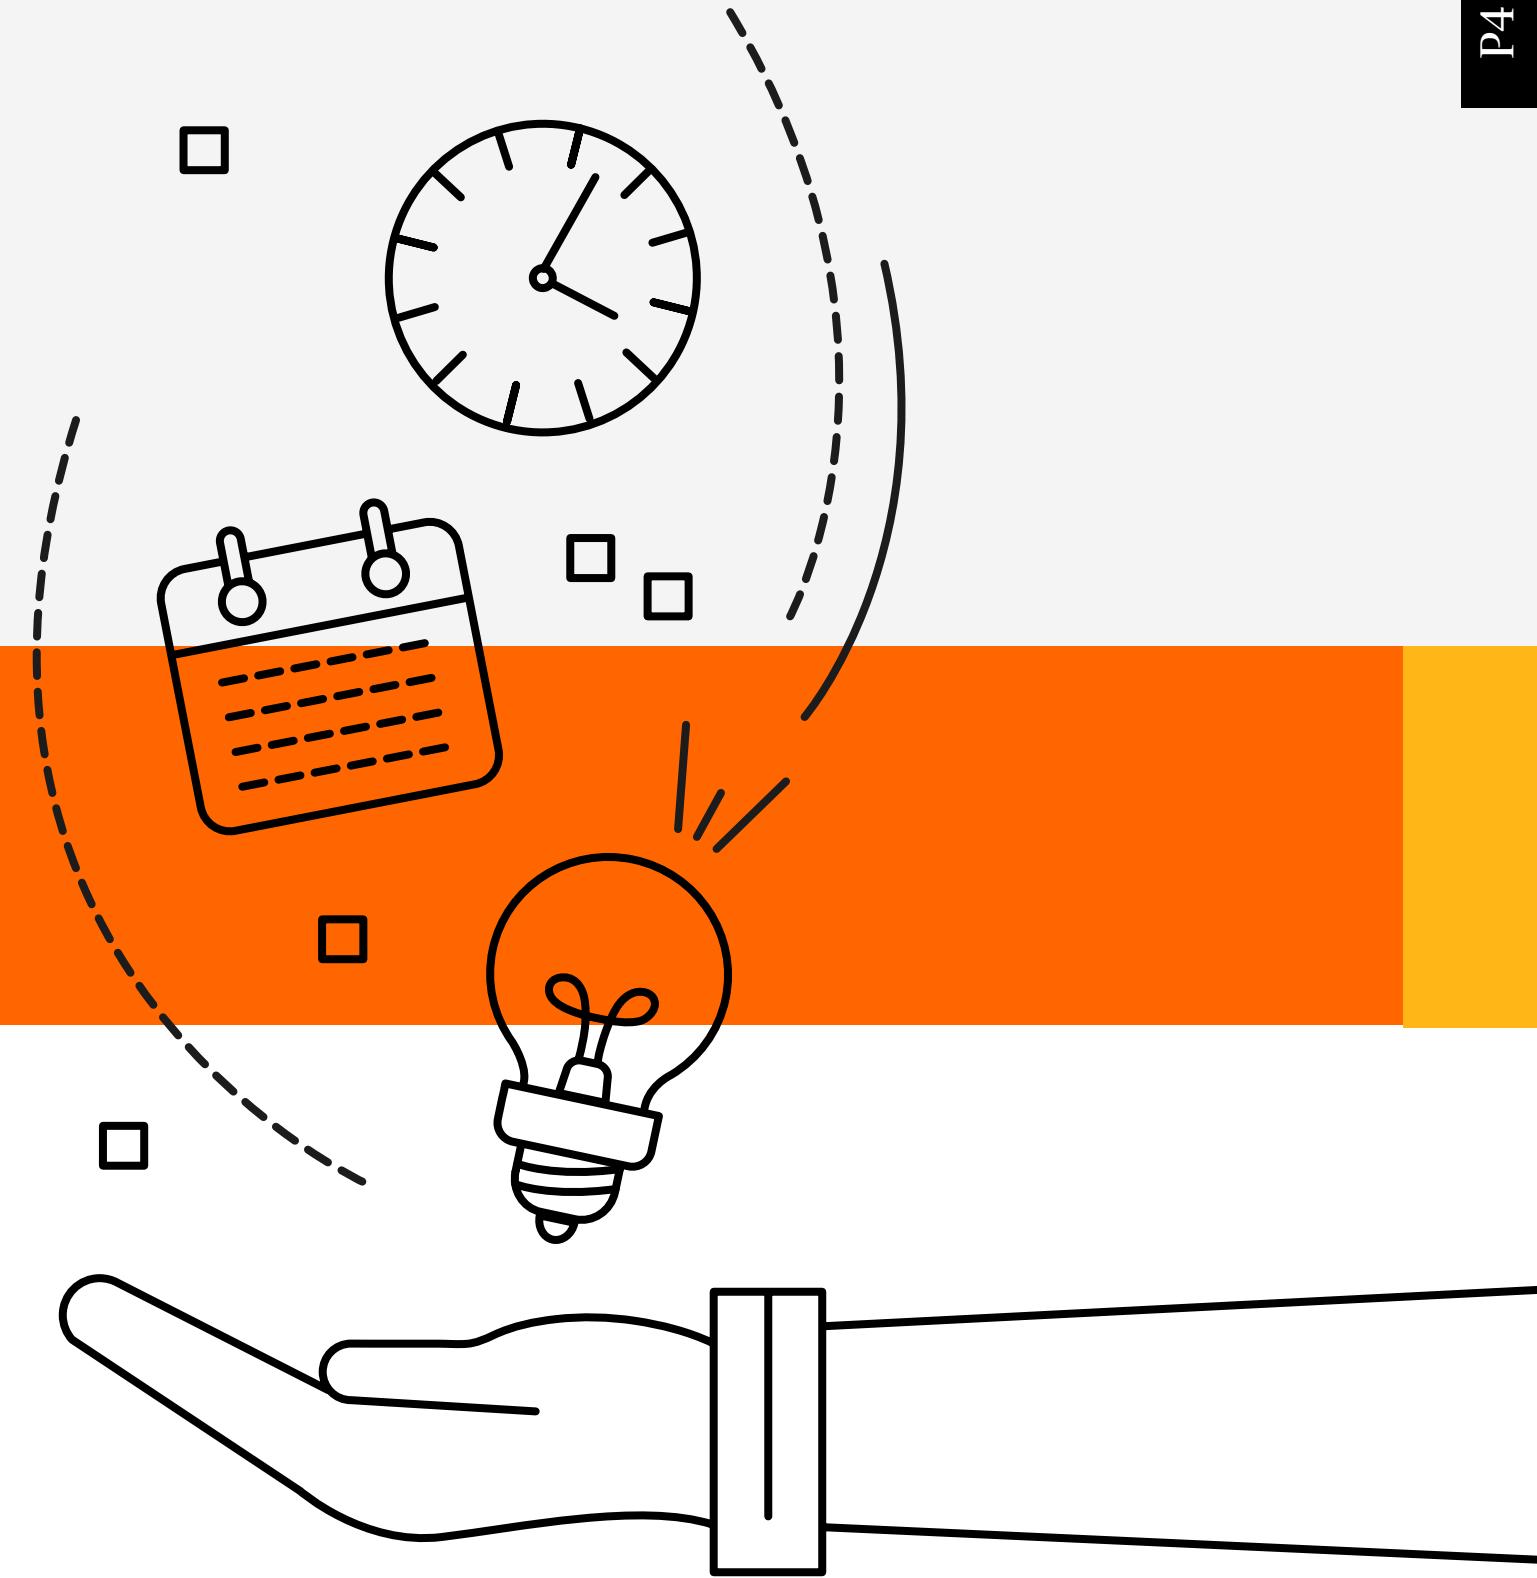

When staff are off work for a long period of time, business output suffers directly.

Not only that, but a person's absence can affect their colleagues, who end up picking up extra work while they're recovering. This can put a strain on relationships and morale within the company, compounding the issue.

The Solution

With the right package of voluntary benefits behind them, your employees can make a return to work, sooner.

And a good benefits package also helps to boost loyalty and attract the best talent, to support your ongoing success as a business.

Financial Risk

The Challenge

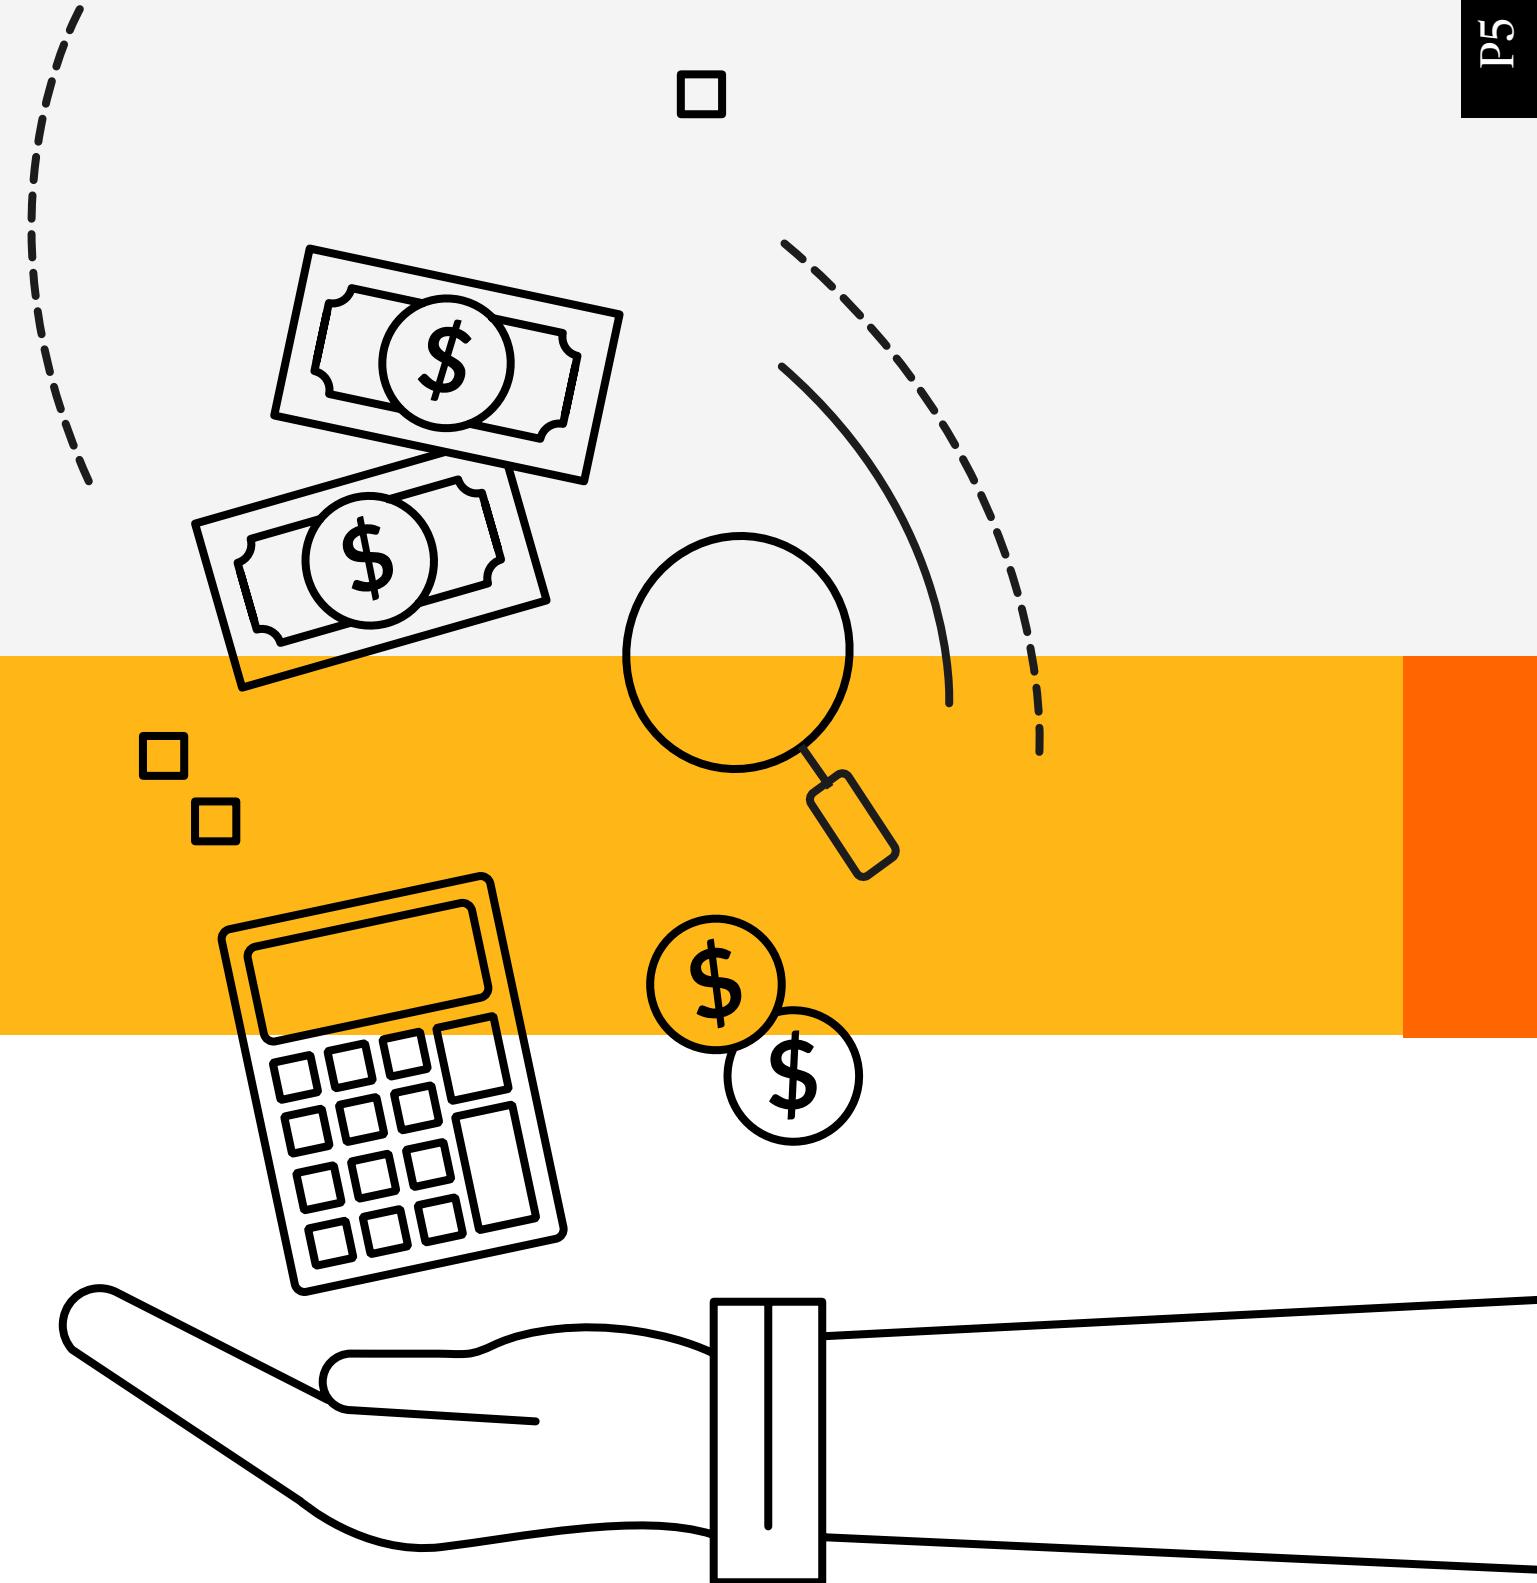

Claim overpayments, temporary staff hires and raised premiums all impact your business' overall performance.

Meanwhile, your employees face financial risks of their own if they're exposed to high deductibles and co-pays.

The Solution

Our automated processes ensure that claims are directed to the most appropriate lines, to avoid overpayments.

And with swift and accurate claim payments, your employees have less to worry about, so they can focus on their recovery.

Administrative Risk

The Challenge

Regulatory fines for non-compliant claim and absence handling can set a six- or seven-figure sum against your bottom line.

But without the right technology, or the right workflow, remaining compliant while handling complex cases can present difficulties.

The Solution

The Chubb WorkInsight™ platform keeps claims and absences in line with all state and federal regulations, thanks to built-in safeguards.

You'll also be able to take advantage of triggered responses to maximize efficiency. And if there's anything else, you'll have a single point of contact within Chubb, ready to help.

Communication Risk

The Challenge

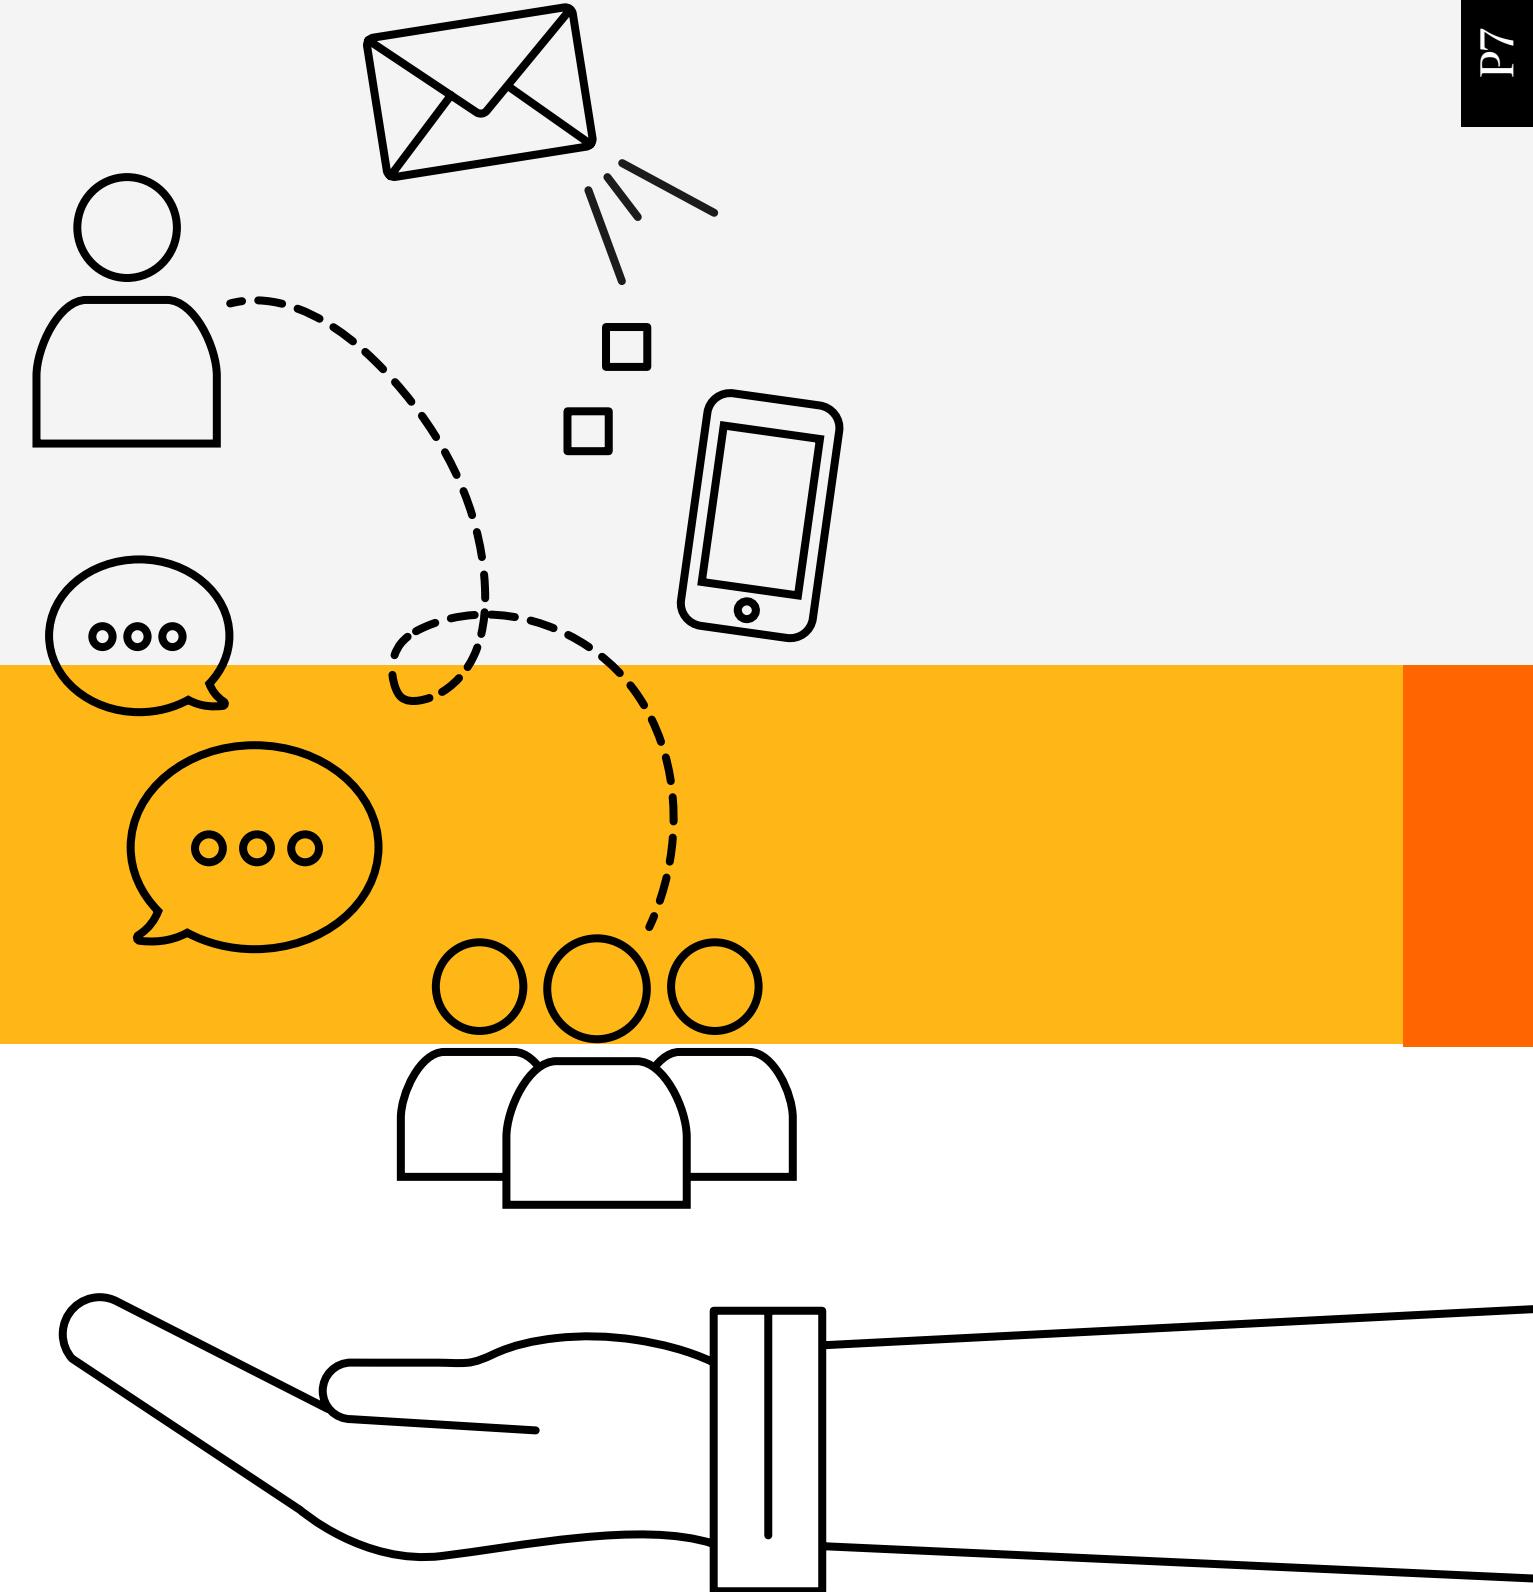

Human error happens. But there's a risk of it happening more often when you're dealing with multiple partners who don't talk to each other.

This can cause claim overpayments, incidents to be allocated to the wrong lines of business, or even result in regulatory errors.

The Solution

By bringing all information around benefits and absences into a single platform, our technology ensures clear and effective communication.

And everyone who uses the platform will have the same uniform view – saving time and helping to create a more efficient workflow.

Chubb Workplace Benefits Absence Management

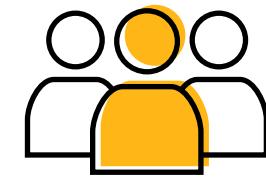

The Chubb WorkInsight™ platform provides a real-time overview of benefits and absence, so you can see everything that's going on in your business.

It lets you manage all types of leave, including support for overlapping allowances, alongside any disability-related coverages (like short-term disability). Helping you deal with all cases and admin in line with all state and federal regulations, across all the leave types below — and more.

Built to Fit

The platform is highly customizable, giving you the ability to create automated prompts and workflows to handle cases smoothly with a consistent approach each time.

Meanwhile, the Official Disability Guidelines are embedded within Chubb WorkInsight™, to help ensure workers get the support they're entitled to. And it integrates with all major payroll and HRIS systems, to keep things simple.

Chubb Workplace Benefits Our Coverages

Behind the technology sits a series of insurance products backed by the experience and service you'd expect from a global industry leader.

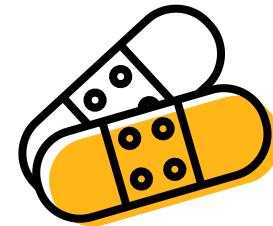

You can choose the lines that fit your employees' needs, then tweak the finer details to create a tailored package of benefits, just for them.

We Go Further

Our voluntary benefits evolve over time to make sure we're matching the needs of today.

Just as one example, there are now more than 30 million Americans living with diabetes¹, so we introduced a new benefit to our critical illness coverage to reward positive behavior². Which could help diabetics be happier and healthier – and take less time off work.

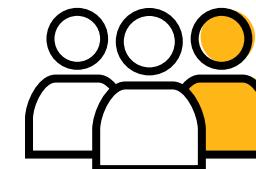

All our voluntary insurance products put employees first. Because by protecting them, we protect businesses.
